Clarity is at the end of the intersection of what you know
Who you are and what you believe

It can be challenging

Because some things we wrestle with and argue and don't know yet

Clarity does not come from doing everything correctly

But more often from breaking things down in order to do it the right way

But since clarity is pure, it is also non-judgemental - not good or bad, but lucid

Generating that state is the most powerful, creative thing we can do

Often, all it takes is a look into our heart

Which is always awake and intelligible

Clarity is when the why is clear and the how becomes easy
