Today, Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts proudly numbers over 30 hotels in 25 countries, a remarkable feat for a company with a young history. Building on a venture which began three decades ago with a handful of hotels, Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts has grown into one of the world’s leading hotel brands with a reputation for renowned Swiss hospitality, contemporary design, personalised service, charm and efficiency.

Swissôtel’s roots are in two iconic Swiss companies, with Swissair and Nestlé founding the hotel brand back in 1980. With an ambitious goal to grow, the company made its mark by acquiring Hotel Le Président in Geneva and signing long-term management contracts for Hotel Drake in New York, Bellevue Palace in Berne and Hotel International in Zurich. In 1990, Nestlé stepped away from the hotel business and the hotel company became a fully-owned subsidiary of SAirRelations/SAir Group. In 2001, Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts was sold to Raffles Holdings Limited in Singapore and in 2005, Los Angeles-based Colony Capital LLC, a global private investment group, bought Raffles International, which owned the Swissôtel and Raffles brands. The following year, Colony Capital partnered with Kingdom Hotels International in founding the joint venture now known as FRHI Hotels & Resorts.

Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts now operates as one of the three distinctive brands under FRHI Hotels & Resorts (FRHI), a leading global hotel company that is also the parent company to Fairmont Hotels & Resorts and Raffles Hotels & Resorts. FRHI also manages Fairmont, Raffles and Swissôtel branded luxury private residence clubs, whole-ownership residences and serviced residences properties.

The Swissôtel brand continues to focus on continued international expansion, with a number of new developments underway in emerging markets globally, including projects in China, Turkey, Russia and the Middle East.

PÜROVEL AT SWISSÔTEL HOTELS & RESORTS

In Romansh, a romance language born in Switzerland, “Pürovel” means “a gently flowing mountain stream”, calling to mind wellbeing, particularly that enhanced by the crisp, fresh beauty of the Alps.

Pürovel is an approach to wellness created by Swissôtel and inspired by the Alpine seasons. Its philosophy mirrors the four stages of natural vitality: renewal (spring), peak activity (summer), recovery (fall) and hibernation (winter). Thus, product and services offered by Pürovel focus on Alpine-inspired wellbeing to invigorate and revitalise both body and mind.

Pürovel Bathroom Amenities
Pürovel bathroom amenities bring a little bit of Switzerland to each and every Swissôtel guestroom worldwide. They are created from naturally-produced essential oils that are grown and distilled in Switzerland. Found in Alpine gardens, these herbs and flowers sprout, blossom and are distilled by the same local Swiss farmers who planted them. These natural elements are then handed over to local aromatherapy and skincare specialists to be transformed into essential oils for shampoos, soaps, shower gels, and lotions.

Different invigorating signature scents are created by mixing various essential oils of different Swiss flowers and trees. Hints of Douglas Pine, lavender, sage, lemon balm, lemongrass and rose balm conjure up an Alpine beauty inspired by the fresh air, the dense verdant forests and the flower-filled pastures of the Swiss Alps.

Exclusively made by and for Swissôtel, these products are available online and at Swissôtel locations globally. Keeping with the brand's commitment to sustainability, all packaging is made from recycled and biodegradable material.

Pürovel Spa & Sport
The Pürovel philosophy also influences Pürovel Spa & Sport facilities, which are located at select Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts worldwide. Equally suited for both business and leisure travellers, each Pürovel facility provides a range of treatment rooms, gym equipment, and water features such as vitality showers, pools, and saunas.

Pürovel Spa & Sport facilities feature a contemporary design, with an emphasis on pure and natural materials that play with all five senses. Each Pürovel Spa & Sport energises its visitor through natural, rustic decor and photographs, gentle music, the Pürovel signature scent, herbal waters and healthy snacks.

Pürovel Spa & Sport is inspired by the four seasons of Alpine Vitality which are the basis of all treatments, rituals, and exercises offered. The seasons include:

- Prepare (emerge) is reflected in spring, the season of blossoming and renewal.
Perform (peak) is reflected in summer, the season of peak activity on sun-drenched mountain meadows.

- Enjoy (cool down) is reflected in autumn, with cooling breezes aiding recovery.
- Hibernate (rest) is reflected in winter, the season of tranquillity.

These exclusive facilities are currently found in eleven locations worldwide, including the newest Pürovel Spa & Sport at Swissôtel The Bosphorus. New Pürovel facilities are also slated to open at upcoming hotel developments in Sochi, Bodrum, and Chengdu.

SWISSÔTEL’S SUSTAINABILITY COMMITMENT

At Swissôtel Hotels & Resorts, successful business and sustainable development go hand in hand. With a responsibility to meet the economic, environmental and social needs of the present without compromising the needs of the future, corporate sustainability is at the forefront of all aspects of the business.

Swissôtel's focus is on minimizing each hotel’s impact on the environment, while allowing guests to focus on enjoying their travel experience. Instead of being asked to "be green", guests at Swissôtel are asked to be guests, with hotels working hard behind the scenes so visitors can experience ‘seamless sustainability’. It’s why Swissôtel installs low flow faucets and plumbing, promotes energy efficiency, uses local products and much more.

Sustainability is integrated into the corporate structure, from the top down, including a global committee and personal targets for managers. Each hotel has a sustainability team, consisting of representatives from various departments. Regional sustainability ambassadors coordinate and support the implementation of the sustainability strategy across their region, liaising with corporate and brand teams.

Swissôtel's sustainability programme focuses on the following key areas:

Sustainable Practices and Operations

Given their size, hotels consume large amounts of energy. To minimize a property's environmental footprint, each hotel has incorporated energy-efficient design solutions, and focuses on using resources efficiently, lowering water and energy consumption, and reducing CO2 emissions.

- To minimize carbon output, Swissôtel does not use CFCs – gases used for cooling – in hotel-level refrigeration processes, including air conditioning. Currently more than 20% of all electricity consumed across the Swissôtel portfolio is renewable or green. On an ongoing basis, the leading hotel brand is also looking at innovative ways to reduce energy consumption and CO2 emissions. For example, Swissôtel Zürich has replaced its oil-generated heating with district heating from a local waste gas facility.

- Significant reductions in water consumption have been achieved through water saving programmes in place at hotels, such as offering guests a choice of laundry cleaning frequency and other hotel efficiency projects. Other water saving methods include reducing the flow rates of taps and showers and improving the water recycling schedules of spas and swimming pools.

- Electricity consumption is lowered by installing new equipment such as meters and motion sensors for lights.

- A company-wide waste efficiency and monitoring process was launched in 2012, to help hotels better manage and monitor the various waste streams and types they produce, while aiming to improve waste minimisation and handling. Currently, many hotels have high-level waste management programmes already in place and initiatives range from food waste recycling machines and partnering with local firms to converting waste oil to bio-diesel and installing waste recycling stations on property.

- Consulting support is offered to owners and architects for both new construction and renovation projects, with the goal of maximizing energy efficiency and team member productivity, and encouraging the use of sustainable materials. Functional design and smart technology is used to simplify and improve the guest experience.

Biodiversity
Swissôtel locations take whatever measures are necessary to protect the local flora and fauna that make up the biodiversity of each global destination. For example, Swissôtel Sydney and Swissôtel Bremen support urban beekeeping by keeping beehives on their properties. The bees produce honey which is used by the hotels in their daily food and beverage operations as well as cocktails, corporate gifts and welcome amenities.

Support of Local Communities
Hotels purchase from reputable local suppliers who meet specified standards and share the brand’s commitment to sustainable, ethical practices.

Giving back is also an important part of Swissôtel’s approach to corporate responsibility, and each hotel is encouraged to support respected local charitable organisations, including SOS Children’s Village, an international social development group that supports children’s rights. The brand has partnered with SOS globally since 1999.

Examples of community support are also highlighted during local activities such as blood drives for the Red Cross, donations of clothes, food and personal items to local charitable groups, community clean up days, tree planting events and more.

Sustainability Report and Accountability
To ensure accountability, Swissôtel sets clear targets to enhance and improve its sustainable performance. The brand’s sustainability report informs guests and other key stakeholders about long-term sustainability strategies, goals, initiatives and performance.

The external reporting of Swissôtel’s sustainability performance follows the standards of the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI), one of the most prevalent standards for economic, social and environmental reporting.

A corporate statement and strategy for sustainability has been established and a company-wide integrated management system has been implemented. SERAM, a web-based sustainability tool for tracking performance, which follows international standards and is certified by SQS, is used by all hotels. Swissôtel regularly collects data on 130 performance indicators including energy consumption, CO2 emissions, waste, water consumption, and compliance issues. This information is used to assess impacts upon society and the environment, to set targets and to reduce negative impact wherever practically possible.

Swissôtel considers the guidance of the ISO 26000 standard when developing and implementing social policy, strategy and procedures. The company has been awarded a variety of international standards, including ISO 9001 (Quality Management), ISO 14001 (Environmental Management), OHSAS 18001 (Health and Safety) and ISO 22000 (Food Safety).

VITALITY AT SWISSÔTEL

Vitality is more than just a programme: it’s a philosophy focused on general well-being and enjoying a high quality of life. Swissôtel’s Vitality programme, launched in March 2012, is inspired by travellers’ desires to maintain their mental and physical wellbeing as comfortably and easily on the road as they would at home. From meetings to menus, Vitality aims to enhance the natural energy and healthy lifestyles of Swissôtel guests and is apparent in each and every detail of the Swissôtel experience.

Vitality in Movement

Fitness options at Swissôtel locations are numerous and are designed to meet the needs of many different lifestyles. Part of the Swissôtel commitment is to provide guests with the highest standards of accommodation by allowing individuals to continue their fitness routine in their hotel room exactly as they would at home. Guests can customise and build their own fitness regime by ordering gym equipment directly to their guestroom. Provided with expert advice and instructions, guests can use a Swiss ball, Aero Step, yoga mats, Thera-Bands, or Pilates rings to aid balance & coordination, increase flexibility, and strengthen muscles.

Guests who enjoy visiting a fitness centre can continue to do so, as Swissôtel fitness centres are equipped with the latest treadmills, ellipticals, rowing machines and more. Equally, anyone who prefers outdoor training can experience their destination with special jogging maps showing planned routes for different skill levels. Digital maps are also available on Google Maps, so that guests can follow the jogging route with their personal handheld device. The weekly activity programme offered by every Swissôtel also includes guided walks or jogging tours.

More recently, Swissôtel launched a series of Vitality Guides that bring guests on a walking tour of the attractions located close to the hotel. Maps are interactive and available in cities where Swissôtels are located. They can also be printed for use without a personal handheld device. Short descriptions of the attractions are included with the map along with the estimated time it will take to walk to the location.

Finally, for a more social experience, all Swissôtel properties offer organised and locally-influenced activities to help keep the travel experience lively and energetic. Guests can learn how to make a smoothie, play Scrabble with the locals, take a yoga class, or go jogging with the general manager.

Vitality in Cuisine

Swissôtel understands that many guests are committed to healthy living or need to take dietary allergies into account. All hotels offer healthy food options to meet guests’ wide array of lifestyle choices. At breakfast, lunch, and dinner, as well as on the room service menu, there are large selections of healthy and light dishes supplemented by fresh fruit, low-fat products and organically-grown coffee. Vitality dishes follow specific nutritional breakdowns and give guests the option to dine on healthy and balanced foods and beverages throughout the day— with a few treats thrown in.
Since Swissôtel wants travellers to eat, drink, and be as comfortable on the road as they are at home, guests are offered a combination of local and traditional cuisine that appeals to travellers aching for comfort food or a taste of the exotic.

Vitality in Meetings

Taking a business trip can often mean long days full of travel and meetings. The Swissôtel experience for the meeting delegate is based on the belief that a healthy mind needs a healthy body. Vitality meeting breaks stimulate participants with light, fresh food and drink options. The breaks are tailored to a specific time of day, enhancing mental capabilities, motivating participants, magnifying memory and defusing stress.
